

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

HAUNTING FIRST-PERSON SCI-FI ADVENTURE MORNINGSTAR: DESCENT TO DEADROCK™ COMING FEBRUARY 17TH 2015

Phoenix Online Publishing Brings Space-Age Mystery Adventure to PC and Mac

St. Louis, MO – February 3rd, 2015 – Phoenix Online Publishing and Red Herring Labs today announced that Morningstar: Descent to Deadrock, a chillingly alien and atmospheric sci-fi first-person point-and-click adventure, will make its debut for PC and Mac on February 17th, 2015. Inviting players to crash-land upon and explore an isolated alien landscape that appears deceptively empty and benign, this adventure by Red Herring Labs brings new life to their hit game Morningstar, offering all-new puzzles, scenes and encounters to discover. Morningstar: Descent to Deadrock will be available for PC and Mac for $9.99 on February 17th via Steam, the Humble Store, the Phoenix Online Store and other major online retailers. Check out the trailer here: <http://youtu.be/Hm9NPnkKClo>

Crash-landed on a desolate, alien planet, gamers will discover that what should have been a routine work-for-hire job for Powell has become a deadly mission to save the merchant vessel Morningstar and her crew. With one man dead and the captain gravely injured, Powell is on his own to repair the ship and find a way to escape the strange gravity well of the empty planet they've landed on. If the situation weren't dire enough, the only signs of life on the planet are the remains of a much larger and better equipped ship and her crew, all dead, and not by natural means. What—or who—brought down these ships and is killing their crews? Why? And can Powell find a way off-planet before he shares the same fate?

About Red Herring Labs

Red Herring Labs is a loose alliance of freelance game developers in Hungary. Their main goal is to develop classical point-and-click adventure games with engaging stories and high production quality. They've developed and released three free-to-play point-and-click adventure games on the flash platform: the original Morningstar (2009), Hetherdale (2010), and Nick Toldy (2011). With the release of the upgraded Morningstar: Descent to Deadrock on PC and Mac, they hope to establish themselves in the desktop market and help pave the way for future adventure games. The main members of Red Herring Labs are Andras Asztalos (game designer, artist, writer, jack of all trades), Peter Kurdi (writer, game designer), and Peter Szegedi (advising director and morale officer).
